NRA Appeals Keynote of Labor Day Meetings

TALMADGE URGES CITIZENS TO GIVE PLAN 'FAIR TRIAL'

Congressman Ramspeck Also Pleads for Support of Program in Address at City Auditorium, Climaxing Eventful Day.

PERSONAL LIBERTY DEFENDED BY KEY

NRA Will Stamp Out Chiselers and Unfair Competition, A. Steve Nance Predicts.

Atlanta labor Monday night soared on the wings of NRA's Blue Eagle as Congressman Robert Talmadge joined in urging that the recovery program be given a fair trial.

"Congressmen and the president acted with the best of motives, trying to help the men who need help," Governor Talmadge said. He warned labor that "we are facing our greatest economic war, and organized labor has got to help the farmer, who made his sacrifice upon which our country when he saved his cotton."

Key Urges Consolidation.

During the afternoon, Mayor James L. Key, speaking at a municipal club house dedication at College Park, voiced the hope of some day seeing consolidation of "our entire people in this section under one government."

Other events of the day included a square dance at Grant park, following the parade.

Hailing Monday as "the greatest Labor Day in the history of America," Congressman Ramspeck said that "never before has a president of the United States solved problems so promptly with such complete success."

Public opinion will force obedience to the NRA and will eliminate chiseling when the NRA gets in full swing, he said. Ramspeck was informed by labor leaders that "Atlanta labor is 100 per cent behind the president and his program."

A. Steve Nance, president of the Atlanta Federation of Labor, said that one of the big accomplishments of the NRA will be the stamping out of chiselers and unfair competition.

Governor Talmadge was introduced by Assistant City Attorney Jack C. Savage attorney for the Georgia Federation of Labor. Reviewing the last legislative session, Governor Talmadge said: "Some things were done for motor magnate and his wife from representatives in Detroit were delivered to the camp but, so far as was known, Ford was not in communication with anyone outside his camp during the capital."

Detroit today, officials of the Ford Motor Company remained uncommunicative regarding the company's attitude on the NRA code, one official, however, declining the use of his name, said:

"We're already living up to the NRA code."

This, observers pointed out, lent weight to the belief that Ford will make his public appeal on the basis that already he pays his 40,000 workers more than the minimum demanded by the NRA code.

Clothes, Suicide 'Confession' Revive Williams Murder Case

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Breaking open a bath locker at the Isle of Palms today, police discovered a bundle of men's clothes and a suicide note which contained a purported confession to the slaying of a sailor named Grady Williams, near Augusta, Ga., at an unspecified date.

The note was signed "J. E. Heath," without an address.

It said: "I have taken poison enough to kill me in a short time. Just leaving body in the ocean for the fish to eat."

Officials said they believed the suicide note was genuine, but they admitted the possibility of a hoax.

The locker was discovered today when the management of the bath house reported that authorities had been locked for a week. Attachments of the place were unable to recall anything of the man who rented it Sunday, August 27.

The note began "Goodby world." It was scrawled in apparently illiterate handwriting on a piece of cheap ledger paper.

Inside the locker consisted of new white duck trousers and a white shirt, dilapidated tan shoes, a cheap belt, tie and pair of socks. There was no undressing, and none of the articles found showed any identifying labels.

Nothing was found in the clothing.

FORD CONTINUES SILENCE ON NRA

'BUY NOW' APPEAL MADE BY JOHNSON

Already Living Up to Code, One Official of Company Declares.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—(UP)—With the deadline for acceptance of the NRA automotive code at midnight tonight, Henry Ford, as yet unsigned, today gave no indication of interrupting his North Woods vacation for a return to Detroit or a statement of his position.

Ford's continued refusal to comment on his plans, and his apparent intention to remain secluded in his elaborate Huron mountain camp here until next Friday, lent weight to the steadily-growing opinion that once he signed the motor magnate is a member.

Johnson, who is administrator of the Roosevelt NRA program, selected the world's fair and Labor Day as the place and time to lay his cards on the table, tell both capital and labor how the situation shaped up, and to tell them in positive terms just what the administration expected of them.

He used the occasion to announce the launching of a "Blue Eagle" buy now campaign and predicted that if the public would co-operate, "we will shorten hours and increase wages, and the depression would be over before the snow flies."

Labor and capital went Johnson one better and for the first time in history, they declared a joint meeting to hear the words of a governmental leader who declared he was trying to help both.

Before Johnson entered the fair grounds, addresses by two labor leaders were broadcast to the thousands of Labor Day visitors over the exposition loudspeaker system.

One address came, via radio, and from Fair's own broadcast booth.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, urged workers to organize to prevent a breaking down of maximum hour and minimum wage provisions as set by the NRA code.

Morrison expressed concern over what might happen after the various codes expire.

Next there came the words of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who spoke from Akron, Ohio. His address was brought by radio to Chicago, then broadcast to every fair visitor over the exposition system.

Green told labor would demand still shorter working hours than provided by NRA codes. He said more than 2,000,000 persons had returned to work under the administration leadership, and insisted that still more must be done.

Johnson reviewed past depressions and administration efforts to end the most recent one. He said these efforts have reached a point where "the next few weeks" will come in the next few weeks.

He said President Roosevelt already has "provided the organization and written the prescription" and that it now depends upon capital and labor whether the plan will work.

The problem, he says, is for all employers to live up to the NRA code and all consumers to help them do so by buying generously.

"The result is up to you," he told them.

Governor Ralph Is Seriously Ill

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The presence of a small pneumonic area in the right lung of Governor James Rolph Jr. was revealed today by four specialists called into consultation at St. Francis hospital, where the executive is seriously ill.

A slight improvement was announced yesterday. Rolph's cough was less severe and his temperature had dropped to 101 from 103.

Keenan Says Guns Will Halt Bailey In Next Break, Pledges Full Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—An assertion that Harvey Bailey never would come out another jail break alive was made tonight by Joseph B. Keenan, director of the federal anti-gangster campaign.

Keenan, who helped direct a sensational marshaling of federal forces early today to aid in the search for Bailey, told newspapermen that the man held in the Urschel kidnapping case would be guarded in the Oklahoma City jail by a squad of federal agents "trained in the use of fire arms."

"We are taking good care this time that Bailey faces trial on the date set," Keenan said. "Should there be any attempt at another escape the effort will be met by a trained squad of heavily armed federal agents, who have been directed to use their guns if necessary."

The buying power of Atlanta will be enlisted this week in an intensive campaign to line 60,000 women under the wings of the Blue Eagle of the NRA, beginning with a meeting of drive leaders this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce building, when Mrs. Max E. Land, chairman of the women's division, will provide and issue instructions to division major and minor captains.

Following the campaign, waged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce here, to enlist Atlanta employers in the NRA, the women's division of the

URSCHEL KIDNAPER IS BACK IN JAIL AFTER DELIVERY

Harvey Bailey, Most Desperate Criminal, Recaptured Four Hours After Escape From Dallas.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Heavily guarded, Harvey Bailey, charged with the kidnapping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man, and with participation in the Kansas City union station slaying, was placed in solitary confinement in the Oklahoma county jail tonight after a four-hour dash for freedom from the Dallas jail.

"Well, I got out, didn't I?" Bailey sneered.

Recaptured at Ardmore at 11 a. m. today by three policemen after he sawed his way out of his Dallas cell, forced his way from the jail with a pistol and kidnapped Nick Tresp, turnkey, Bailey was rushed by a five-car caravan to McAlester.

Alfred Bates, alleged to have been one of the Urschel kidnappers and three members of the family of R. G. Shannon, on whose farm near Paradise, Texas, Bailey was captured recently, already were in the Oklahoma jail.

Fearful an attempt would be made to release Bailey on the 100-mile trip from Ardmore to Oklahoma City, Gus T. Jones and E. H. Colvin, bureau of investigation agents, formed the caravan of five cars at the Ardmore jail.

The ride here, however, was uneventful. Clad in gray overalls, the Dallas jail costume—Bailey was handcuffed and chained to J. R. Wright, United States marshal at Dallas.

Officers said Bailey was to have been about 35 miles east of Ardmore, where members of an underworld gang of which Bailey allegedly is a member, were waiting.

It was the knowledge that led officers to this meeting that led officers to believe that the desperado would be made to face the desperado.

Half down, Ardmore chief of police, said Bailey made no resistance when officers surrounded his damaged car after it crashed into a curbing in flight.

"He was as white as paper," Dunn said, and he soon was looking at me with a sickly grin on his face and his hands flew up in the air.

Cornered in a smashed sedan on a main intersection of Ardmore, Bailey surrendered quietly to three Ardmore policemen.

Bailey made no move toward the piano that lay beside him when Dallas whirled round a corner and smashed into a curb, Bailey soon found himself looking into the cold muzzles of three Ardmore police officers.

Big Crowd Attends Funeral Rites For Blind Negro Shot by Policeman

A detail of 40 or more policemen and plain clothes men headed by Chief T. D. Sturdvant Monday evening to order in what was intended to be a "mass protest funeral" for Glover Davis, blind negro, killed by an officer several days ago when he was found in his residence at 450 Ripley street allegedly with an ice pick in his hand. Officers said they believed him to be a "dodger calling on white and colored persons to protest the killing of negroes by policemen" had been broadcast in several sections of the city.

Chief Sturdvant personally headed a cordon of policemen which surrounded the Mt. Zion Baptist church at Piedmont avenue and Baker street.

Though a large crowd of negroes was overflowing the church, no disorder was evident. That part of the town which could not wedge into the church stood silently along the sidewalk while a preacher conducted the ceremony.

In the crowd of spectators were a dozen or more white people. Several were brought out by plain clothes men and questioned, and one, who gave his name as O'Jallow, was taken to the station and locked up charged with distributing pamphlets calling on "white and colored people to stop this killing of negroes by policemen." O'Jallow gave his address as 121 Come street.

Those brought out of the church by officers were searched for literature, but were warned privately by Chief Sturdvant to remain "away from negro funerals in the future."

Davis was shot by a policeman sever-

Confederate Veterans and Sons Arriving in City for Two Meetings

The most active of the veterans of the Confederacy and hundreds of sons of Confederate veterans will converge upon Atlanta today, the former for the meeting of officials of the United Confederate Veterans, which begins Wednesday, and the latter for the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, which opens today.

The meeting of the U. C. V. officials will be at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon (eastern time) at the Social Circle Methodist Church with the Rev. Mr. Conland officiating. Interment will be in the churchyard.

A native of Harlem, Ga., Mr. Hatcher had resided in Social Circle for about 30 years. He conducted a dry cleaning establishment. Possessor of an excellent singing voice, Mr. Hatcher was heard in concerts and over the radio in Athens and in Atlanta.

He is survived by his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Carey Joiner, of Tampa, Fla.; Miss Martha and Miss Kathryn Hatcher, of Social Circle; a son, George O. Hatcher Jr.; his father, W. E. Hatcher; a sister, Miss Evelyn Hatcher, and three brothers, Hutton, Ernest and Vernon Hatcher, the last named of Atlanta.

Addresses of welcome are to be delivered by Gov. George W. Meader and Mayor James L. Key with responses supplied by Dr. William R. Dancy, of Savannah, commander-in-chief of the S. C. V.

Others on the morning program are Martin L. Harsen, commander of General Fagg is a widely known hotel man, having been connected with a number of hotels over the country, including the Kimball House here during its early days.

A feature of the pre-convention activities of the S. C. V. was a dinner last night in honor of Mrs. Wilson, who was honored by Mrs. Alice Randolph Smith, of North Carolina, daughter of the man who designed the Stars and Bars, the flag of the Confederacy. Miss Smith is color bearer for General Atkinson. The dinner was at the Henry Grady hotel. The S. C. V. will have a session this morning at the Georgia Terrace hotel. Guests at the dinner included Mrs. Coleman, Miss Anna Hardy Britton and Mrs. Anne Ettinger Howell.

Billion-Dollar Debut Is Planned For Tennessee, Belle of Dixie Rivers

By JAMES H. STREET.
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 4.—The Tennessee—belles of the south's river clan—primping and fussing with her curves and preparing for her debut, a billion-dollar party that will change her valley from a languid land of smoke and song to a domain of romance and beauty.

And now after all these years of spinsterhood while she reflected the glory of her father Mississippi, the Tennessee has at last come into her own inheritance. For President Roosevelt and the Tennessee Valley Authority have plans to lift her face and make her useful as well as ornamental.

They already have started surveying the head of the old river and will drop a dam at Cove creek to insure a steady flow of water all year. She's the most whimsical, temperamental big river in Dixie and while the Mississippi is the head man of the clan, the Tennessee is truly the river of romance.

In Three States.
She touches every phase of southern life on the 600-mile voyage from the mountains to the marshes. A bevy of slender little girls seems to form the Tennessee near Knoxville; a vivacious river up there that sweeps around the hills, gathering strength from her feeders before she begins that long plunge for the prairies.

Factories flank her banks. Smoke from a thousand mills casts shadows over her blue waters. That's east Tennessee—political, economically industrial, geographically mountainous. The folks walk briskly. The cities might be in the east. The people drink cider, grow grain and put sugar in their cornbread and never eat okra and gumbo.

Water swirls down the middle of east Tennessee and reaches the rolling hills of the Hiwassee county before she broadens and sweeps away to Chattanooga.

LAKE IS SEARCHED FOR DROWNED MEN

All-Day Hunt for Bodies of Decatur Trio Prove Unavailing.

A party, led by a brother of one of the victims, searched along the shores of Lake Burton Monday for the bodies of three men, who were drowned Sunday when their motor boat overturned but was righted by their efforts.

The men who drowned were R. H. Maley, his brother, Raymond Maley, of King's Highway, Decatur, and J. Wilson Bell, 42, of 538 Ponce de Leon place, Decatur. Samuel H. Benedict, of 228 Moreland avenue, S. E., who was in the boat, swam to the shore.

The boat overturned in one of the deepest parts of the lake, about three miles above the dam. Benedict said that Raymond Maley was piloting the boat, a high-powered vessel, in circles in the middle of the lake when the motor cut out suddenly and the boat plunged under the surface. He said that all could swim and that the three who were drowned had been weighted down by their clothes.

The party, which was staying at the Maley camp, included Mrs. R. H. Maley, Mr. Bell, who was foreman of the electrolytic department of the Ruralist Press; Mrs. Bell and their two children; Mr. Benedict, an employee of the Southern Blue Print Company; and Mrs. Benedict.

Bell and Mrs. Maley were taken to Decatur late Sunday in an ambulance of A. S. Turner, of Decatur, and were under the care of physicians Monday.

One of three brothers of Mr. Bell directed the search at Lake Burton Monday and residents in the neighborhood planned to continue the effort until the bodies were recovered.

Young Democrats Are Back Home Filled With Enthusiasm for Clubs

The Young Democratic Clubs of America are destined to become one of the most potent factors in national politics, members of Georgia's delegation to the first national convention of the clubs in Kansas City last week, declared on their arrival home Monday night.

Richard J. Reynolds Jr., Atlanta attorney, who is president of the Georgia division and represents the state on the national committee, said he believed the organization would have more than 4,000,000 members within the next two years and would be powerful not only in national politics but also in state and local government.

"There was boundless enthusiasm shown by the delegates at Kansas City and some of the sessions were turbulent to say the least," Mr. Reynolds said. "However, the strife shown in some quarters only emphasizes the enthusiasm of our membership. They have shown that they are deeply interested in the affairs of their organization and that they are deeply interested in the affairs of their organization."

Mr. Reynolds said he planned to call a meeting of county club leaders in the near future and to put on a determined membership campaign in Georgia.

"We have a large number of active workers in Georgia right now," he said. "However, because we do not have the two-party system in the state

we are a little slow in organizing in certain counties. I hope that by this time next year we will have 100,000 bona fide members in Georgia."

Major Clark Howell Jr., business manager of The Constitution, who was chairman of Georgia's delegation and sergeant-at-arms of the convention, was equally enthusiastic.

"The club is doing a great work for the party in many states and they can be of much help right here in Georgia," Major Howell said. "There is no good reason why Georgia should not give every democratic presidential candidate the same handsome majority it gave President Roosevelt last year."

The Young Democratic Clubs are the answer to the question that has long been unanswered in Georgia. Organization in off-season provides the machinery for great majorities at elections."

A number of Major Howell's friends on hand to greet the delegation at the Terminal station had difficulty in identifying method of address, as he is a major in the army reserve corps, a lieutenant colonel on the staff of Governor Eugene Talmadge and lately the convention's sergeant-at-arms.

One friend put all the titles together and called him Sergeant Major Lieutenant Colonel Howell.

Others in the delegation returning Monday night were Arthur S. Bird, grocery executive; Bevins P. O'Neal and Devereux Lippit.

Davis To Keep Clear Of European Politics

S. S. WASHINGTON AT SEA. Sept. 4.—(P)—A firm resolve to steer clear of European political controversies was indicated today by United States Ambassador-at-Large Norman H. Davis.

Mr. Davis further indicated that he wanted it understood his mission to Europe was merely to make himself available for discussion in connection with the technical preparation of the peace conference.

He expects to begin disarmament conversations with British statesmen immediately upon his arrival in London Wednesday morning.

He apparently was not disturbed by reports that the British press had hailed his coming with predictions of a naval construction race.

It was understood Mr. Davis feels that as long as nations are not violating the London naval treaty there is nothing to be excited over.

Los Angeles Observes Its 152nd Birthday

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.—(P)—With a good chunk of the mid-west in its population and 440 square miles in its area, Los Angeles today looked back on 152 years of existence.

Los Angeles was founded September 4, 1781, and given the startling name of "La Ciudad de Nuestra Senora de la Reina de Los Angeles" (the city of our Lady the Queen of the Angels).

Starting with a population of about 50 persons who were recruited by Captain Don Fernando Rivera Y Monroy, it populates the pueblo on royal order of the Count of Spain, the valley has given home to some 1,238,048 souls. It also has given up 440 square miles of its "black, loamy soil" as the Spaniards described it for the area of the city.

At 1876 when the first transcontinental railroad arrived, Los Angeles embarked on its growth toward a major city. It attained its greatest growth between 1920 and 1930, when its population doubled.

Young Democrats Are Back Home Filled With Enthusiasm for Clubs

We are a little slow in organizing in certain counties. I hope that by this time next year we will have 100,000 bona fide members in Georgia."

Major Clark Howell Jr., business manager of The Constitution, who was chairman of Georgia's delegation and sergeant-at-arms of the convention, was equally enthusiastic.

"The club is doing a great work for the party in many states and they can be of much help right here in Georgia," Major Howell said. "There is no good reason why Georgia should not give every democratic presidential candidate the same handsome majority it gave President Roosevelt last year."

The Young Democratic Clubs are the answer to the question that has long been unanswered in Georgia. Organization in off-season provides the machinery for great majorities at elections."

A number of Major Howell's friends on hand to greet the delegation at the Terminal station had difficulty in identifying method of address, as he is a major in the army reserve corps, a lieutenant colonel on the staff of Governor Eugene Talmadge and lately the convention's sergeant-at-arms.

One friend put all the titles together and called him Sergeant Major Lieutenant Colonel Howell.

Others in the delegation returning Monday night were Arthur S. Bird, grocery executive; Bevins P. O'Neal and Devereux Lippit.

HIGHWAYS FOR HEAVY MOTORS.

Italy will soon undertake an experiment which may point the way to the solution of the most troublesome phase of the highway traffic problem in this country.Finishing touches are now being put on a new special highway from Milan to Genoa, to be used exclusively by heavy trucks. Planned to stand up under the hammering of 10 and 15-ton trucks, passenger cars will be barred from the highway.The new highway will be radically different in construction from those now existing in Italy. Its paving will be much thicker and more substantial, all curves will be wide sweeping, in order that trucks with two and even three trailers may negotiate them safely and even in the mountainous sections no grade will be steeper than 4 per cent.The route of the new road will lay around the larger cities in order that the lumbering dreadnaughts may not interfere with city traffic.
Suggestion of a national system of motor express highways for the United States was made by Senator Phipps, of Colorado, during the first session of the 71st congress in 1929, when he introduced a resolution calling for the creation of a commission to study the feasibility of the proposal. The senate acted favorably but the measure was permitted to die in the house. A like fate met bills introduced by Senator Frazer in the 72nd congress.In the 1932 session of the New York legislature a bill was introduced for the construction of a toll motor road for buses and trucks to run completely across the state. There would have been no maximum speed limit, but all vehicles would have been required to proceed at a speed of not less than 30 miles an hour. This proposal also died without action.The need of such roads are shown by the congested traffic conditions on the highways between such cities as Philadelphia and New York and Washington and Baltimore.On such roads the speed of passenger cars is largely controlled by that of lumbering buses and trucks and free traffic tie-ups take place.The trip from Atlanta to Macon could be made much more quickly and more safely if the present highway was clear of buses and trucks and left for the exclusive use of passenger cars.The highways now are built largely with the taxes from light cars, but they are worn out by the huge buses and trucks that pay little of their construction or upkeep cost. So certain is it that this situation must be changed that the Italian experiment will be watched with keen interest in this country.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS GROW.

The United States has long been behind other nations in provision for pensions for the dependent aged—commonly called old-age insurance, but a survey by the federal bureau of labor statistics shows that the movement is gaining momentum in every section except the south.Ten western states, two northern and six eastern states have laws making it mandatory upon counties to provide pensions for the dependent aged, while two western, two northern and three central states have laws making such pensions optional with the counties.From Virginia to New Mexico, with the single exception of Arkansas,
no such laws exist.Nine states—Arizona, Arkansas, Indiana, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oregon and Washington passed old-age pension laws at their legislative sessions earlier during the years, while Connecticut, Missouri, Pennsylvania and RhodeIsland took similar action last year.
The bureau reports that old-age pensions paid during 1932 totaled $22,616,000 as against only $165,- 000 in 1927, this increase reflecting not only the additional states which had passed pension laws but the effects of the four years of depression, during which many aged people were forced to seek public support.The average monthly pension paid throughout the country was $19.34 in 1932, and the cost of the system to the inhabitants of the states having such laws averaged 74 cents, ranging from four cents per person in Maryland to $1.23 in New York.The first law of this nature was passed by Montana in 1923 and during the succeeding ten years more than half of the states of the union have taken similar action.

A DISAPPEARING INDUSTRY.

The American whaling fleet, famed in fact and fiction, is nearing extinction, according to the United States bureau of navigation, which reports that of the once numerous fleet comprising 200,000 gross tons displacement, has shrunk until nine ships totalling less than 10,000 tons remain.For more than two centuries the deeds of heroism, and the hardships undergone, by the American whalers have enriched the sea lore of the world. Where the cry arose "there she blows!" an American ship was to be found—and in the tales in the grog shops of the world's great ports stirring accounts of dare-devil achievements generally were woven around the names of the dauntless crew of an American whaler.The first record of the whaling fleet is for the year 1794, when there was a tonnage of 4,129. This grew to 190,000 tons in 1858, but that year was the zenith of the fleet and it has steadily decreased since.
Sperm oil is not now as valuable as it formerly was, since vegetable oils, such as cotton seed, tung and Soya bean oils are being used for many of the purposes for which it was necessary. This is one of the chief reasons for the decrease in the fleet, and the increase in Japanese and Russian competition has likewise played an important part.When the last American whaler is docked after her final voyage, there will be recorded the end of an industry, the hardness of which has tried men's souls as few have seen, but one which has made rich the pages of the printed record of the seven seas and added a picturesque background for the imagination of the fiction writers of more than a century.

Moscow

"How about this new night life business?" I asked one official here in Moscow. "I thought you people had always considered it as one of the worst parasitic aspects of capitalism? How is it that you are allowing it now to grow up in your own cities?""He gave me a very plausible and convincing answer: "This is perhaps the only country in the world where all industries work three shifts a day," he said. "There must be an opportunity for the workers of all three shifts to have an hour or so of diversion each day. Moreover, night life as it is known in Paris and London and other large cities, which we condemn as different. We are not so against jazz and frivolity in such, but against the parasitic aspect of it, against its exploitative character.""But never mind his reason. The playing of jazz bands and the opening of midnight theaters, the frequent dances in Moscow and elsewhere, all this shows that the situation is easier and more liberal. Interestingly, German symphony orchestra conductor gave me some months ago that the way the Russians were playing jazz opens an entire new field of musical experimentation. Under the leadership of the group of young composers, the German master believed that the Russians were about to inaugurate a new era in music. That was done in the past, why shouldn't they do so again? Especially now, when musical education—and all creative art in fact—has been opened up to millions and millions of people. Everything depends on economic circumstances.
Art begins to unfold immediately when there is a greater measure of well-being."\******

Ukraine

In Bad Shape.

"The Soviet authorities ask foreign writers and their own—to write the strict truth. The strict truth is that the food situation in Ukraine was appalling up till a few weeks ago. It is better now. The harvest is abundant.
The crop has not been plentiful within memory of the oldest living inhabitant. The wheat tax is also far more gentle this year. No compulsion is needed.
There is a fixed tax on wheat this year, which means that the farmer may sell his surplus in the open market.
The idea of a fixed tax, that is to pay a fixed quantity of wheat to be delivered up in the form of taxation, is expected to result in a re-animation of agriculture."

Greater

Freedom.

"There is also far more freedom in religious matters. The Soviets feel that the political power of the former state church has been definitely broken.
There is a noticeable pickup in attendance at the churches. I was informed. The rules forbidding religious instruction to be given to children are slightly relaxed. The very fact that Henri Barbusse, the famous French writer, who wrote two books on Jesus Christ, which were translated into Russian, is at present the honored guest of the Soviets, while he was bitterly criticized for his "sentimental and immoral" novels, shows the Nazarene's year or so ago shows the beginning of a change of heart on the part of the authorities there."*(Copyright, 1933, for The Constitution.)

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

"There is a new reason why State Secretary Hull has resumed his daily tariff lectures to the press."Millions of dollars due American firms are tied up south of the Rio Grande by exchange restrictions. Great Britain obtained an agreement with Argentina recently whereby she can get her money out through a certain percentage of Argentine exchange. Domestic debtors are clamoring for something similar.""By offering some tariff concessions, Hull thinks our people may get up out of comparison with rises in other lines, and that if the new commissioners do not reduce rates, he will take them out and put them to the paper. He will want to get extravagant on them," said the error."Actually no specific date has been fixed by those who will do the devaluing.""The time element will be decided by results from the NRA."\******

HITLER

Our officials are very much worried underneath about

"Hitler in Austria. They smell serious trouble.*"Their private reports indicate the Nazis are getting along fine in their efforts to promote a revolution against the Dollfuss government.
The idea to force Nazi control on Austria and reunite it (unofficially) with Germany.""Such a step is forbidden by the treaty of Versailles, but that makes it all the more alluring to Hitler's poorly focused vision.""The trans-Atlantic official Grapevine says Mussolini offered Austria a large share of the Italian market and use of the seaport Fiume in their recent negotiations.""The Italian dictator was Germany's best friend when Hitler came to power. He soon found he could not play ball with a wild man.""With secret help from the allies (particularly Italy and France) the Dollfuss government may outlive the Hitler underlining."*"Obviously Hitler is digging his own international grave. All the world needs to do is wait. Some day he will jump into it and cover himself up."TARIFFS"There is a new reason why State Secretary Hull has

On the Air Today

Color will be the keynote of Betty Barthell's song recital over the WABC-Columbia network and WGST at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon, when she sings "Dawn in the Blues" and "Strike Me Pink." Accompanied by Fred Berrens' orchestra, Betty also will be heard in "Shame on You" and "River's Taking Care of Me."

TAMPA KILLS SELF AFTER SLAYING WIFE

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 4.—(R)—Vincenzo Mistretta, 38, operator of a grocery store, yesterday shot and killed his wife, Maria, 29, probably fatally injured his mother-in-law, Mrs. Vincenza Albano, 50, and then ended his own life with the last bullet in his gun. ## Navy Protects Officer From Canal Zone Arrest COLON, C. Z., Sept. 4.—(P)—Captain Paul P. Blackburn, commandant of the United States navy submarine base here, today refused to deliver Lieutenant John Henry Cross to Canal Zone civil authorities on a warrant charging involuntary manslaughter.

The civil charges were lodged against Lieutenant Cross following the death of Lieutenant Robert B. Morgan in an automobile accident about a week ago.

Lieutenant Morgan was a passenger in the Cross car when it collided with a bus driven by Charles T. Antonez.

Opening with an English folksong, "O, That We Two Were Maying," by Nevin, they will also offer "Charming Weather," from the Monckton operetta, "Arcadians"; "In Our Little Home Sweet Home," from Sigmund Romberg's immortal "Maytime," and "Rose of the World," from Victor Herbert's brilliant work, "Rose of Algeria."

The first one to look inquiringly in my direction was a thrasher. His graceful tail kept him balanced on a twig relatively a few inches from my face, as he looked silently at me, of awaiting birth. This one was followed by a yellow-throat, which maintained the same nervousness that the thrasher showed. A few redstarts were in the place, but kept to the higher branches, and I got only quaternary glances at them as they flitted here and there through the leaves. I was afraid to look up, for I might spoil the charm and lose sight of other birds in the bushes, worth watching off in the distance.

The thrushes came and went from time to time, never pausing long in my direct line of vision. Cathedars to the number of four went through the twigs before me in an amazing display of grace. The deep chestnut color of their undertail coverts showed remarkably well in the diffused light, setting off the drab gray of their wings.

Tiny hooded warblers flitted through the thicket from side to side and other and their handsome golden and black uniforms were brilliant, being well lighted from all sides.

The march of birds went on. I believe that there were not less than 20 birds in the thicket, based on the numbers that I estimated before the arrival of one position found it to move to the immediate right of every bird near me. Let me recommend that you sit for a while in some thicket this fall and watch the birds as they stop, vagrants of the air, for a well-earned rest from the labors of night migration. Flying by night,

THIRTY-FOOT THICKET.

The thicket was not over 30 feet across. Most of the small trees in there were alders, which tells you at once that it was in moist ground. The trees and vines made an almost complete shade on the soil and there I sat, hunched up, trying my best to look like a stump, with some measure of success. How do I know? Birds that ordinarily would have flown at sight posed for me within four feet.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood.

Chills and fever are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any store.—(adv.)

Fitzgerald Pastor Lays U. S. Ills To Business Greed and Corruption

FITZGERALD, Ga., Sept. 4.—Interpreting the NRA slogan, "We Do Our Part," to mean "we do our best according to our individual ability," Rev. Mr. S. Hamblen, pastor of the First M. E. church of this city, made a stirring address at a special NRA meeting here Sunday afternoon. Prefacing his remarks with the plea that they be considered as coming from an American citizen, rather than from a minister of the gospel, Rev. Mr. Hamblen said as his text he selected verse of the fourth chapter of Nehemiah, relating the reconstruction of the walls of Jerusalem. "So we built the wall; and all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof: for the people had a mind to work."

Describing the efforts of many disloyal players of the NRA, he said: "I am sure that they have done their part in the recovery program when they have followed the letter and spirit of the new codes only so far as their neighbors have done, the speaker urged the adoption of the plan of Nehemiah in placing workers in the cities with instructions to proceed with the building in each direction as far as their abilities allowed or until joining with the work of their neighbors.

"Our economic, political, social and religious walls have been broken down in the past, and we must now build up the same causes which contributed to the breaking down of the walls of Jerusalem, greed in business, political corruption and abandonment of the church. The same spirit of co-operation and whole-hearted effort marking Nehemiah's workers is required for their reconstruction," Rev. Mr. Hamilton said.

Describing the efforts of many disloyal players of the NRA, he said: "I am sure that they have done their part in the work of the gospel."

He urged the members of the NRA to be considerate of the rights of their neighbors.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Labor Day brought good news to postal employees—their payless furloughs will be suspended September 30.

The announcement was made in Atlantic City today by Postmaster-General Walter Farley, who said he was doing it because he realized the nation is on the road back to prosperity.

Last June the order was issued prescribing a 9-day furlough without pay for employees in the postal service, during the three-month period from July 1 to September 30.

DETROIT IS STIRRED BY MYSTERY KILLING

DETROIT, Sept. 4.—(P)—The arms and legs of a woman, found roughly hacked from the body in an outlying field, tonight sent police on a baffling quest for the slayer in one of the city's most sensational murder mysteries.

While patrolmen beat through the bushes in the city's northwestern section in search of the woman's torso, detectives unwound a tangle of circumstances pointing they said, to the identity of the killer.

The prints they reported were identified through immigration bureau records as those of a Mrs. Lourier Jobb, who in 1922 encountered difficulties in entering the United States from Canada.

Mrs. Jobb, the police said, was divorced and four years ago married Edward McCann, a Detroit automobile sales employee. McCann could not be found today and relatives of the woman, as well as neighbors, reported mysterious circumstances surrounding Mrs. McCann's disappearance Friday night.

The officials said one group of relatives informed them Mrs. McCann remained last week she was going to Ontario, Ont., to visit a brother. Another group they said, told them McCann had said his wife left Friday for the Century of Progress in Chicago, taking $115, all his money.

By THE BIBLE GAME EDITOR.

The last picture of the Bible Game series will appear in the Atlanta Constitution on the next Sabbath, Oct. 1. The contest continues, but no rush to submit sets to completion. The final deadline has been set for Wednesday, September 20, and there is no advantage in submitting sets before that date. None will be checked and judged until all are in.

The data of space between publications is 80 centimeters. The deadline may well be devoted to determining whether verse-answers thus far considered are really the most appropriate ones. Should some of the solutions need not be altogether fitting, substitutions should be made, or entries prepared.

Questions and Answers

As Soon as Possible.

Q.—How long after September 20 do you think it will be before the names of the prize winners will be published?—M. M., Hull, Ga.

A.—I really can't say, since that would depend upon the number of sets submitted, and the length of time it will take for the checking. However, the announcement of winners will be made just as early as possible.

You Are Eligible.

Q.—I am not taking The Constitution in my home, but members of my family here in the house are taking it. They didn't care to enter the Bible Game, but I did, and they have given me the pictures. I want to know if my set will be accepted.—Mrs. E. C. Atlanta.

A.—Your set of Bible Game pictures and verse-answers will be accepted and checked on the same basis with all others received, since the Bible Game is open to subscribers and non-subscribers alike.

September 20.

Q.—I have taken part in the Bible Game and enjoy it very much. I want to know when you want me to mail my set in.—Mrs. B. D. W. Commerce, Ga.

A.—The deadline for submitting Bible Game sets is midnight, September 20. Those that are mailed by postmarked date of not later than September 20, and will be accepted when delivered to this office.

Can't Tell!

Q.—Can you let me know in what

U. S. INCOME TAX RULED DEDUCTIBLE

Payments From 1928 to 1931 May Be Taken From State Levy, Court Rules.

Income tax payments to the federal government may have been deducted from payments made to the state under Georgia's first income tax law, in effect from 1928 to 1931, the court of appeals ruled Monday.

Under the present law, known as the Boykin act, which was passed in 1931, payments are deducted just as payments to the state are deducted from the federal payments.

The decision of the court of appeals Monday threw out the contention of Chairman Paul H. Doyal, of the revenue commission, that the payments to the federal government could not be deducted from the state taxes.

Those who did not deduct the payments during the three-year period will begin action immediately to recover the sums paid into the state treasury. For the most part, however, it was said Monday, taxpayers have continued to deduct their federal payments despite the ruling of Mr. Doyal.

The decision Monday was on the case of the National Biscuit Company against the state revenue commission, a number of firms and individuals having joined the biscuit company after the passage of the law which gave birth to Mr. Doyal's levying assessment of $1,475.99 against the company. Of this amount $1,100 was allegedly due in taxes and the balance in penalties.

The high court ruled on the case after it had been sent up by Judge G. H. Howard of the Fulton superior court at the request of both plaintiffs and the defendant.

The company contended that the deduction allowed by the state revenue commission was illegal because it violated the constitution.

Contestants may feel free to consult the Bible Game Editor at any time, by mail, in person, or by telephoning Walnut 6565. Reasonable questions will be answered gladly.

The Boykin law makes specific provisions that the payments are to be deducted.

VETERANS WARNED TO REQUEST HEARING

With 1,288 claims before the veterans' review board appointed to consider compensation, the hearing work in Atlanta Monday. The board must complete its investigations by October 31. The cases involve about $2,500,000 annually in payments to Georgia veterans.

Captain A. L. Henson, director of the state veterans service office, Monday warned all veterans that they must file their application for a hearing with John M. Slaton Jr., director of veterans' administration, if they desire two weeks notice of the hearing on their claims.

Captain Henson said that thus far only about 25 percent of the veterans having claims have sent in their evidence.

Atlanta Scouts Will Arrive Home From World Jamboree Thursday

By SWAIN (Pinky) McCRAKEN, PARIS, France, Aug. 25.—(By Mail)—Atlanta Bay Scouts returning from the jamboree in Hungary spent the first two nights, after breaking camp, in Munich, Germany, headquarters of the Nazi party. We saw a number of Hitler soldiers in their brown uniforms and red berets, red arm bands with the sign of the Nazi party. There seemed to be a sort of tense atmosphere about the whole city, but no signs of violence were evident. Except for the occasional passing of soldiers, the city seemed entirely peaceful. We learned, however, that a number of people were living in constant fear of an air raid or revolution of some sort, and few dared even talk about Hitler. We managed to procure a few Hitler arm bands and pennants as souvenirs.

From Munich, we went to Innsbruck, Austria, the prettiest scenery we have had yet. The train ran through the foothills of the Alps, snow-covered peaks all around us. At Innsbruck, we took a cable car ride to the top of the highest of the immediate Alpine peaks and could see more than 200 other peaks in all directions. We enjoyed a good snow fight, the first snow Victor Witten, a member of our party from Jacksonville, Fla., had seen.

Traveling from Innsbruck through Switzerland, we stopped for two hours in Zurich where we enjoyed a walk along the shores of the beautiful blue lake around which the city is built. We went on to Geneva where we spent two days visiting the various spots of historical interest. We were particularly interested in the League of Nations building, through which we were shown by an attaché of the American consulate. We were also taken through the offices of the international labor commission, and other branches of the League. A new palace of the League of Nations is now being constructed. It is to be completed in 1935.

We then came to Paris where we have been for three days. The first day we spent in visiting the well known places within the city, including the Eiffel Tower and Napoleon's tomb. The second day we went to Versailles and saw the famous palace gardens built in the time of Louis XIV. We walked through the famous Hall of Mirrors and saw the tapestry upon which was signed the Treaty of Versailles in 1919. Another excursion took us to Malmaison, home of Josephine, wife of Napoleon, where we saw Napoleon's coronation robes, medals and decorations and other historical pieces.

This afternoon our group of 10

Singer Wins Contest First Time She Stands

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—(P)—The first time 12-year-old Irene Baraclough stood alone she won third place in the Canadian national exhibition singing contest.

When she was a year old she was crippled by infantile paralysis, but last spring she had an operation.

She sang without a piano, and the judges said she could walk across the stage on crutches and stand without them, holding to the edge of a desk.

SYNDICATE BUSINESS INCREASES IN GEORGIA

With a career in business that has matched his record, Captain King Merritt of Minneapolis, arrived in Atlanta Saturday to attend the reunion of his old regiment, the 328th Infantry, 82nd division, and a state sales convention of the Investors Syndicate.

Mr. Merritt, who is a southern product, having been born in Tuskegee, Ala., was in July made general sales manager of the Investors Syndicate, nation's thrift institution, with headquarters in Minneapolis.

Mr. Merritt rose from the ranks, starting as a salesman on the Alabama sales force of the company, and later becoming manager of the state of Alabama. He was made western divisional manager in 1923.

Although he carries two silver plates in his hips as souvenirs of the Atlanta, Mr. Merritt, who is president of the Investors Syndicate, noted the numbers of 10 vehicles operated by exceptional care in downtown traffic and a subsequent check with the highway department revealed the names which have been added to the highway honor roll. Guest admissions to "From Broadway to Hollywood" at Lowe's Grand have been made available to them.

Again today, a staff man will seek 10 unusually careful drivers from the

STURDIVANT FIGHT GOING TO COUNCIL

Bowden To Press Move
For Suspension at Session This Afternoon.

City council this afternoon will hear a demand for suspension of Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant pending trial on misdemeanor charges growing out of grand jury investigation of the alleged courtesy card racket, and will consider Mayor James L. Key's veto of a resolution permitting municipal employees to discuss politics, issues and candidates.

The meeting, scheduled for 2 o'clock, was postponed from Monday evening.

Demanding an early trial, Chief Sturdivant has announced his intention of remaining in office pending the result of the case. He charged that political enemies were at the bottom of the matter.

Alderman J. E. Bowden, of the fifth ward, who said that he will insist that Sturdivant step aside until he is vindicated in court, explained that he is a personal friend of Sturdivant, but as a city official he believes it to be for the best interests of all concerned for the chief to retire until the issue has been tried.

Sturdivant pointed out that many identified city officials remained in office during the city graft investigation until their cases were disposed of in court. Demand for his retirement was made by the police committee with the backing of Mayor Key, on the contention that council has no jurisdiction in the matter.

Alderman J. Charles Murphy will seek to pass the political talk paper over to the mayor's veto, it was said. The mayor's message will be considered by the police committee with the backing of Mayor Key, on the contention that council has no jurisdiction in the matter.

Council also will consider a resolution to establish a committee of three council members and two citizens to investigate relative rates advantages of Atlanta's electric power companies purchased from privately or publicly-owned utilities. The measure has the approval of the finance committee.

"BUDDIES" OF 328TH RENEW FRIENDSHIP AT REUNION HERE

A little larger around the waist, perhaps, but with their enthusiasm undiminished, 60 men who trained at Camp Gordon 10 years ago and then led the 328th infantry regiment into the World War met at Major Thomas Scott's home on Habersham road Monday afternoon and set a few records for reminiscence and consuming barbecues.

General George B. Duncan, who commanded the Eighty-second division, General Julian Lindsey, who commanded the 328th infantry brigade, and Colonel Gordon Johnston, the Eighty-second division's war-time chief of staff, were among those present.

The officers drove to Chamblee Station after the meeting, and their brigade commanders dedicated a marker memorializing all the men of the 328th infantry who were killed in action. The visiting veterans were honored at a dinner Saturday night as the guests of Edgar B. Dunlap.

Special Sight-Saving Classes For Children Begin Sept. 11

Announcement is made of special sight-saving classes for children whose eyesight has been reduced. The classes will be for Atlanta children who are blind, which opens September 11 at Calhoun school on Piedmont avenue, N. E. These classes, conducted by J. J. Childs, teacher of Braille, and Mrs. R. C. Witcher, teacher of the sight-saving classes, will be a part of the Atlanta public school system and no charge for tuition will be made.

There are three distinct groups of children who should benefit from these classes, according to information from the Fifth District Chapter, Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind, including those whose eyes are imperfect; those whose sight, apparently normal, could be protected from unnecessary eye strain and those who are already blind.

Proper care of weak eyes during the first years of school have not only prevented blindness, it is said, but through avoiding the taxing eye-strain frequently experienced in the ordinary classroom, eye trouble have been overcome resulting in material improvement or normal eyesight in later years.

"I cannot stress too emphatically the need of timely care of weak or affected eyes in the prevention of blindness," said J. P. McGrath, president of the Fifth District Chapter, Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind.

"A large percentage of blindness existing today, might have been prevented by timely attention," added Mr. McGrath, "and it is the object of this organization to instill knowledge and special educational methods, where necessary, to conserve sight and prevent blindness, as well as to minister to those who unfortunately become blind."

Mr. McGrath urges parents of handicapped children to take advantage of the regular and special classes at Calhoun school.

Classroom work for children in the sight-saving classes, under Mrs. Witcher, is so arranged with special textbook and special school projects, that the least possible strain upon the eyes is experienced.

The regular courses of study, including general subjects as required in other classes, together with manual training, are given in both the sight-saving and the Braille classes, it is said. Special classes at Calhoun are from the first grade through junior high, preparing for entry into high school.

A request is made that parents or others knowing of children handicapped by imperfect sight or blindness, communicate with J. J. Childs, Raymond 5471, or Mrs. R. S. Witcher, Jackson 1582-J. Any information concerning requirements for the child, his classroom and any necessary aid, should be given to either J. J. Childs or Mrs. Witcher, and immediate arrangements for entering school is urged to prevent loss on the part of the child.

Wesleyan Alumnae To Honor Students At Tea on Sept. 8

Assembling representative members of the social contingent will be the tea to be given Friday afternoon, September 8, from 4 to 5 o'clock by Group No. 3 of the Atlanta Alumnae Association in honor of the young ladies attending Wesleyan this fall. The affair will be elaborate in detail and the colors of the college, purple and lavender, will be reflected in the decorations. Former students and members of the alumnae are cordially invited.

Mr. McGrath urges parents of handicapped children to take advantage of the facilities and special classes at Calhoun school.

Classroom work for children in the sight-saving classes, under Mrs. Witcher, is so arranged with special text-book and special school projects, that the least possible strain upon the eyes is experienced.

The regular courses of study, emphasizing general subjects as required in other classes, together with manual training, are given in both the sight-saving and the Braille classes, it is said. Special classes at Calhoun are from the first grade through junior high, preparing for entry into high school.

A request is made that parents or others knowing of children handicapped by imperfect sight or blindness, communicate with J. J. Childs, Raymond 5471, or Mrs. R. S. Witcher, Jackson 1582-J. Any information concerning requirements for the child, his classroom and any necessary aid, should be given to either J. J. Childs or Mrs. Witcher, and immediate arrangements for entering school is urged to prevent loss on the part of the child.

Mrs. Cassidy Attends National Convention in Milwaukee, Wis.

Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy, national director of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, left yesterday for Milwaukee to attend the National Forest Congress of America. She will represent the Woodmen Circle at this congress, having been elected at the meeting held recently in Omaha, Neb. Before leaving Mrs. Cassidy noted that her contingent of 165,000 members have pledged full co-operation to the NRA program. "The entire membership of Atlanta is behind us in our support to this movement," said Mrs. Cassidy.

Mrs. Cassidy, together with the local group officers of the Woodmen in Atlanta, has been busy making preparations for the fall activities, and upon her return to the city she will assume definite plans. Mrs. Cassidy emphasizes the fact that to be of real service, it is necessary not only for members of the Woodmen Circle to unite with one another, but for all fraternal societies to work together. She is also active in the Georgia and Tennessee fraternal congresses.

Miss Jones Weds

Women Voters' Staff and Board To Meet Today

A combined meeting of the staff and board of the Atlanta League of Women Voters will be held today at 11 o'clock at league headquarters. The meeting has been called an hour later so that officers, board members and staff may be present at Judge Humphreys' court when the new grand jury is sworn in and charged. So many members of the league were interested spectators at the drawing of the jury that Judge Humphreys has invited the Atlanta league to be present at this interesting ceremony.

The huge edition of Facts, the league's official paper, will be ready for distribution September 16, just prior to election. Officers of the league plan to have a copy of this paper in the hands of every registered voter. The magazine will carry a complete history of every candidate who has answered the league questionnaire, his former political record, and his stand on important issues. Since it is impossible to know all the candidates who are running for office, this correct information is a great help in voting intelligently.

The guest of honor at the tea which the League of Women Voters gives September 15 is Mrs. Lucile Foster McMillin, one of the three commissioners of civil service in Washington. Mrs. McMillin will be in Atlanta for the opening of the new district civil service offices in the federal building which are in charge of District Commissioner J. H. Weiss.

Mrs. R. L. Turner requests all league members who took the pledge to sign it, return them promptly filled out to the league office not later than Tuesday, September 5.

The speakers' bureau of the Atlanta League of Women Voters has been taxed to full capacity by the intensive drive of the NRA. No accurate estimate of the number of speakers has been made as yet.

Friendly Counsel BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Write to the Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Forty-two years old, married when I was 17 to a now six year older, the mother of a lovely daughter, my wife and I am very unhappy. For the first 14 years of my married life I was desperately in love with my husband. Nobody can know the agony of mind I endured during those years with my husband spending his money on fast living, leaving the little daughter and me to get along the best way we could. For the sake of the little girl, and too, because I loved my husband, I hung on hoping and believing he would change and meet his responsibility toward us. Things got steadily worse. He would lose one position after another but due to a winning personality he could always find work. Moving about from place to place, from one job to another, I still didn't give up hope. He is out of work again and we are forced to go from our relatives to the other. None of them wants us and so we can't stay long at any home. I am at the end of my rope. I need advice and encouragement. I have already sacrificed my personal happiness for the sake of my child, but what have I got for it? No home, no income, no feeling of security and no hope for the future.

The opening lead was the King of diamonds, and suddenly the best lead from the standpoint of the defense. This trick was won with the Ace and Mr. Hynes immediately took the heart finesse. When this proved successful he drew the remaining trumps. Then he led three rounds of spades and was delighted to see the Knave drop. The fourth suit in the Dummy enabled him to discard his last diamond in his own hand.

He was now faced with the problem of attacking the club suit. Usually with a combination of this kind the lead should come almost immediately, but unfortunately Mr. Hynes had been unable to touch this suit on account of the necessity of getting rid of his losing diamond. The only chance seemed to be to play for a doubleton to an honor in the East hand or for both honors in the West hand and a forced lead. Of these two lines of play the latter seemed fairly hopeless as either opponent could lead diamonds. Therefore, Mr. Hynes won the 9 of clubs and passed it. West won with the King and laid down his last diamond. This card was trumped and the Ace of clubs played. When the Queen dropped, Declarer's worries were over and he was able to lay his hand down for the rest of the tricks.

This hand proves that it is never wise to give up even when the situation looks very hopeless. Of course the Slam should not be bid, but this does not mean that an attempt should not be made to make it.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

After North opens the club King against a contract of four hearts, what should be his line of play in an effort to defend the contract?

West Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Daniel Randell flies the tenth planet, Afar, from Earth to the far-off Mediterranean and to the fast liner Europa with a large travelling case containing photographs of the most mysterious regions of the universe. Randell, a well-known aviator, knows only that the plates show regions of the solar system never visited by man. Northern Hemisphere, he is instructed to deliver them to Dr. Cole Hendron, celebrated physicist, in New York. When he arrives, Eve Hendron assists her father in the delicate task of measuring the distance between the planets. Randell, on the plane and the next morning's newspaper, publish a statement made by Hendron and corroborated by 60 million scientists throughout the world. The statement reads: "For months we have been working secretly as members of the League of the Last Days. The statement was made at the Bronson Alpha, a distant planet, two planets, which man has broken away from another star or sun and are traveling through interstellar space at an incomprehensible time, until they came to a region of the heavens which brought them at last under the attraction of our sun. Consequently, this has been modified by the sun, and as a result, they are now in our solar system. We have referred to a Bronson Alpha and Bronson Beta, the latter being the smaller—about the size of the moon. The Bronson Alpha is the same as the moon does about the earth. Tony Drake had met Randell the previous night at the Hendrons."

New go on with the story:

INSTALLMENT XII.

Tony, having applied himself for months to acquisition of the primitive proficiencies in growing things and in the manual arts, had found himself appointed by Cole Hendron as his personal officer. Tony possessed, decidedly, a knack with people; and so Hendron was sending him about to recruit young men for the extraordinary duties of the crew, of the space ship.

Her father had asked Eve to suggest, provisionally, the women who must go along; and Tony had met some whom Eve had selected.

Strange to think of them standing with you—and with few other people—all in a small, crowded compartment on the soil of an empty planet! What would they be to each other there?

Stranger still, to gaze at night into the sky, and see a spot of light beside a brighter orb and realize that you might—you might become a visitor to that spot in the sky, in a matter of only weeks, then weeks later, to New York City, where Hendron now spent most of his time. He had workshops and laboratories started in several places, but the advantage of conveniences in New York was so

"Excellent as is health. Telephon-

"You'd better ring her up. I tele-

"She only knows when I'll see her. She is a darn good sport."

"A person of profound estemable-ness."

Tony looked with surprise at the back of the Jap as he started toward the door. The Japanese, like the Bronson bodies had made his services more loquacious than he had ever before been. Aside from that, no change in Kyto was discernible—not even Kyto anticipate any change. He began to remove his travel-worn clothes and went into a bathrobe when Kyto succeeded in completing a telephone connection with his mother's house in Connecticut. * * *

Tony moved with a feeling of inci-duity. The Hendron apartment was exactly as it had been. Eve appeared, new! Eve was a little different from the old Eve. She wore a green evening dress that he remembered from an hour spent long ago on the balcony.

"Hello, Tony." In her eyes was the same wonderment, the same surprise and uneasiness that he felt. Hendron appeared immediately after his daughter.

"Drake, it's been a long time, chum, well, this is odd. Here we stand just as we did in the old days, chum."

The dining room doors were opened. They sat down. Leighton served con-sommme, and Tony picked up his silver spoon with a dreamy feeling of un-reality which psychologists have noted and only begin to explain.

Hendron brought him to his senses.

"Tell us the news, Tony. We've been living down there at the laboratory ever since you left. This is Eve's and my first night off. Eating there, sleeping there. We have dormitories now on the floor above. What's going on in the world? You know, we're even bar newspapers now. They're too much of a distraction, and Dodson has instructions to keep track of the news but not to give us any unless it will have an effect on our work."

Tony began to talk. He took what opportunity their questions gave, to eat.

"It hasn't made as much difference as you think. The government at Washington is now less concerned with the fact that the populace should be moved away from the coast, than it is with isolated groups. If you really have not read about them, I can give you some idea. There was a general strike in Chicago two weeks ago that tied up everything. No electric light and no water; nothing for a day. There was a terrific riot in Birmingham, where the police forces in half a dozen cities called in. The state governments weren't able to cope with the situation. In some cases it was just that the people decided not to work any more, and in others it was pure mob uproar. The federal government stepped in everywhere. They took over blanket control of every industry, so that the workers kept running, power houses kept going, and so on. Nominally workers are jailed for dereliction, but actually I think that the people decided not to work any more. Troubles began when I was in Boston, but in three days all the major functions of housing, food and transportation were working fairly well."

"Oh, Tony," she said, her voice almost giving way, "I'm so glad to have you back! I've read all your reports."

"I've read all about acknowledgments of them," said Tony honestly.

It was all that had passed between them. Reports and acknowledgments, in lieu of love letters!

"Father will be right out. We've been working steadily ever since you left. You and dad and I are going to have dinner together tonight."

"Any one else?" asked Tony jealously.

"No; who would there be?"

"Your South African, I thought probably."

"Not mine, Tony!"

"Not either's, then. He keeps him in the laboratory for you."

Hendron, wearing his laboratory apron, walked briskly into the front office. "Hello, there, Drake! Delighted to see you back. Your candidates have been arriving daily, and we've put them all to work. Tony has been working steadily ever since you left. And Smith and Greve are enthusiastic about them. He looks at me with a smile, 'Five-fifty. I've got a little work to do here. Then we want you to come up to the house for dinner.'

As Tony unlocked his apartment door, Kyto sprang to his feet.

"I take your presence," Kyto said, "with exaggerated gratitude."

Tony laughed. "I take yours, Kyto, a dinner jacket, something in the way of a bighorn! I hadn't had a drink since I left. Good Lord! It's refreshing to see this digging again. How's my mother?"

"Excellent as is health. Telephone."

"You'd better ring her up. I tele-

"She only knows when I'll see her. She is a darn good sport."

"A person of profound estemable-ness."

Tony looked with surprise at the back of the Jap as he started toward the door. The Japanese, like the Bronson bodies had made his services more loquacious than he had ever before been. Aside from that, no change in Kyto was discernible—not even Kyto anticipate any change. He began to remove his travel-worn clothes and went into a bathrobe when Kyto succeeded in completing a telephone connection with his mother's house in Connecticut. * * *

"That's all according to the plan that the league worked out before the news broke. A man named Carey is largely responsible for it. He's an economist. I believe he's a guest at the White House right now, and has been for ten days."

"I see his name," Tony said, and continued: "As I was saying, it hasn't made as much difference as you would imagine. I saw one nasty riot in Baltimore, between soldiers on one side and cops on the other, but in half an hour it was all over. I think that the work of keeping the country in operation. There was some trouble in the army and navy, still more in the national guard, especially with soldiers who were fathers and wanted to remain with their families. I suppose there are nearly half a million men doing police duty right now."

Hendron looked keenly at Tony.

"That's all according to the plan that the league worked out before the news broke. A man named Carey is largely responsible for it. He's an economist. I believe he's a guest at the White House right now, and has been for ten days."

"I see his name," Tony said, and continued: "As I was saying, it hasn't made as much difference as you would imagine. I saw one nasty riot in Baltimore, between soldiers on one side and cops on the other, but in half an hour it was all over. I think that the work of keeping the country in operation. There was some trouble in the army and navy, still more in the national guard, especially with soldiers who were fathers and wanted to remain with their families. I suppose there are nearly half a million men doing police duty right now."

"And the unemployed have been corralled en masse. There is a project to turn the entire basin of the Mississippi north and west of Kansas City into an abode for the coast populations, and the unemployed are scattered throughout the surrounding quarters of sorts for 10,000,000 people. Most of them are temporary. They are also planting vast areas of land in crops.

I imagine that they are going to compel the migration when the interior of the country is prepared as well as possible to receive it, and when the danger of tidal waves decreases. As a matter of fact, an industrial center is working at top speed, and Chicago is headquarters for their produc-

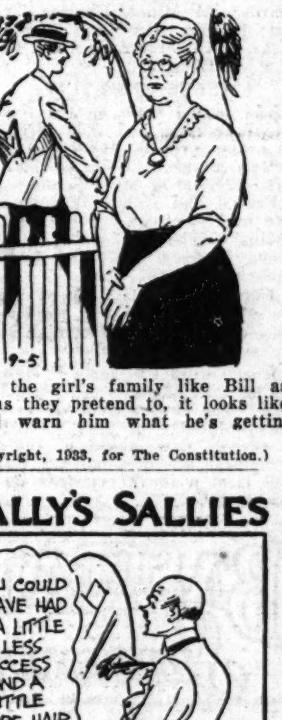

uce. I don't just remember the figures, but an appalling quantity of canned goods, clothing, medical supplies and things like that are being produced and distributed to masses in the Mississippi valley. Granted that the valley remains inhabitable, I really believe that a majority of our population will be successfully moved there and installed for an indefinite time."

Best Material Since 1928 Greets Tech Football Coaches

New Rules Interpretation Makes Grid Foul Valuable--At Times

Those new football rules offer an incentive for rough play—something they were supposed to prevent. The interpretation was made clear at the officials' meeting which concluded yesterday at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Suppose, for instance, a halfback gets away for a 50-yard run. He stumbles and falls to one knee. (Make it two if you like.) But gets up and goes on.

There will hardly be a penalty called for tackling but if a defensive player piles on or makes a rough tackle while the player is still struggling forward on the ground, it is foul.

Then what happens? Well, mates, it is a sad story.

The second foul nullifies the whole thing. It is no play.

And the player who has run 50 yards has it all taken away and the ball goes back to the spot where it was put in play.

Therefore—if a runner gets away for a long gain and stumbles—all the defensive team has to do is commit a foul and the gain is wiped out and the play called off.

Coaches argued that the better interpretation would be to say that one penalty offsets the other and the ball stays put. But no, said the officials, it was in the book. It was in the book. (It was there last year but they didn't apply it.)

At any rate there is a sure-fire manner in which to wipe out those long runs—if you can get the young man to slip or stumble. And you'd be surprised how many do just that.

MAREE, THE BIG FURNITURE MAN.

Vance Maree, the big sofa and chair businessman from Jacksonville, was watching the Georgia Tech football squad as it trotted out in the steamy air of Monday afternoon.

"How would you like to be out there today, Vance?" someone asked.

"Well," he said, as he mopped his brow, "I'd rather be watching."

Maree played last in 1929, making an All-Southern tackle position that year and deserving it. He is now in the furniture business with the Rhodes company. He looks great.

"I'm in fine shape," he said, "and I got that way without any 18-day diets or quitting potatoes and bread. I just ride a horse a lot and that is great exercise."

One of his friends looked over the six feet and the conditioned 220 pounds and said, "Well, I guess you could carry the horse back if it ever gets tired."

MOSES TO LEAD THOSE VOLS.

Those Tennessee Vols, who do not know what it is to wander around in the wilderness of defeat, will have a Moses to lead them on to more victories. Major Bob Neyland, always reticent and lugubrious, speaks out and nominates Fred Moses as the greatest quarterback in Dixie and indicates that he will be the greatest the south has ever seen. And the south has seen some good ones.

And Freddie Russell, of the Nashville Banner, tells how Moses ALMOST (?) went to Vanderbilt. He writes:

Nashville is well acquainted with the subject of Major Neyland's praise. Fred Moses received his prep tutelage under Red Sanders at Columbia Military Academy, and led the Cadets to a state championship in 1931. He was the outstanding man on the team.

The peculiar thing about it all is that neither Tennessee, nor any other team, made an especial effort to land Moses. All recognized him, but all considered him too small. With his winter underwear on he weighed about 135.

A native of Knoxville, the boy figured it would be to his advantage to attend college elsewhere. Too, he felt, he wasn't exactly appreciated by Tennessee. They hardly noticed him despite his excellent prep record.

Too, Fred Moses was no millionaire and needed a job. Tennessee offered none. It seemed that the Volunteer officials took it for granted that he would come there.

One night last September Fred decided it was time to get action. He called up one of his former high school mates on the Vol squad, and informed him he was going to Vanderbilt and was leaving that night. It was good-bye, best o' luck, etc.

Whereupon Moses tossed a couple of bricks into a suitcase, picked up some books and waddled to the station. There, in full view of everyone, he purchased a ticket to Nashville. The scheme worked.

In ten minutes a delegation was attending him. His ticket money was returned and he was practically escorted back to the U. T. campus. Which indicates that the Tennessee quarterback is very cagey indeed—on and off the field.

TECH MAY HAVE MIDGET QUARTERBACK.

Georgia Tech may turn up with a quarterback no larger than the Moses who is to lead the Vols out of the mountains.

Shorty Roberts, who weighs 132 pounds when he lets his hair grow long and carries two handkerchiefs, is likely to do a lot of quarterbacking for Georgia Tech.

Shorty Roberts, also called Skippy, is the first player to appear at the Flats in some time—since Stumpy Thomason to be exact—who can catch those punts on the run and without any signs of trepidation regarding the ends coming down.

He can do a lot of things, including tackle well in the safety man's position. He also calls a very good game at quarterback. Roberts played in enough games last fall to get valuable experience.

Mr. William Alexander, who decides things at the Flats, says that he really has no idea who will play his quarterback position.

Without trying to select Mr. Alexander's team for him, it is safe to predict that Shorty Roberts will play frequently and often at the signal position.

The latest bulletin on Roberts is that he lost two pounds during the summer. Which means that it will be necessary to tie weights to him to prevent his blowing away on windy days.

THE DAVIS CUP COMMITTEE.

Our Davis cup committee issued a statement yesterday in which it said that hopes were high for next year when the play began at Wimbledon as the nation's challenge for the cup held by the British. "The conditions will be favorable," said the committee in its usual ambiguity.

This means that the conditions at Auteuil were not favorable. Most of us believed that the unfavorable conditions were the British tennis players who happened to be better than any other tennis players in the world, including our own. The committee did not say what the unfavorable conditions were.

I am wondering if they referred to the boos which were given our players. It should be remembered that the boos originated in America, starting at the baseball parks and moving on through sport.

And the first tennis player of note to be booed was Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, of France. She was booed in the United States within the sacred portals of Forest Hills when she defaulted to Mrs. Mallory. I always believed that the great enthusiasm with which Mlle. Lenglen defeated our players after that, including the then Miss Helen Wills, grew out of this boozing.

We should remember that the Bronx cheer is our own national contribution to the cause of world sport and international amity. And when we hear it given we can feel a great pride in our national cheer.

MEHRE ORDERS THREE-A-DAY FOR BULLDOGS

Thirty-Three Varsity Men Report for First Practice at Athens.

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 4.—Football camp back to Athens for a protracted stay took place yesterday. The Bulldogs, faced with a game before the month is gone, took their first workout of the season under a blazing hot sun that caused many of them to lose some surplus summer weight before the short practice was over.

Sixteen of the regular squad of 50 were missing as Conch Harry Mehre, anxious about his opening game with North Carolina State, put the squad through rigorous open-air drill session of calisthenics, running down under punts, passing, and other muscle-loosening exercises. A short burst of signal running by three teams ended the day's workout.

THREE-A-DAY.

A three-a-day schedule will start Tuesday for the Bulldogs as Harry Mehre puts the pressure on his men in an effort to prepare them for their opener against N. C. State, a team which would be formidable even with the Bulldogs in mid-season form. The morning practice will begin at 9:45 o'clock as early as possible to beat the burning sun. A lecture session follows at 12:35 o'clock. The afternoon session will be held at 5 o'clock.

Yank Ludwig, veteran center, led the first team on the field for signal running today. With him were Almen Shi and Butch McCullough at guard; Charley Oppen and John West at tackle, and Graham Batchelor and Charley Turbyville at ends. Sam Brown, fleet but light halfback, was stretched a quarterback today. With him in the backfield were Buck Chapman and Cy Grant, halfbacks, and Bill David, fullback.

The other teams were largely packed up owing to the absence of three quarterbacks, several guards and a number of other players. Chief among the missing were Leroy Young and Jack Griffith, regular quarterbacks; Leroy Moorehead and John Brown, guards; Lou Wolfson, tackle; Dick Martin, end; and Homer Key, end. Tom Evans and Sam Dykes, guards; Al Minot, Charley Treadaway, Stumpy Alger and Short May, backs, and George Spence and Gordon Wagner, linemen.

SECOND OUTFIT.

The second team on the field for signal running had John McKnight as center; Frank Johnson and Ted Vetter, guards; Bill Cooper and Eddie Sorensen, tackles, and Fred Sorensen and Harry Watson, ends. The backfield was composed of Jeff Hollis, quarterback; John Bond and Glenn Johnson, halfbacks, and Joe Crouch, fullback.

Aside from the day's signal running, the punting and passing, the boys got quite a bit of exercise running around for photographers.

Rough work will begin Friday with the issuance of uniforms, Coach Mehre said. The first scrimmage is slated for Wednesday of next week. This is several days ahead of the usual scrimmage schedule, but the Bulldogs will meet a tough customer on September 30.

Billy Reese Beats Jimmy Halverstadt To Retain State Title

YOUNG SUTTER
NEW CHAMPION IN JUNIOR PLAY

Battle for Doubles Crown Is Halted by Darkness.

By Tobe Edwards.

Billy Reese added another state singles tennis crown to his collection of net titles with a 6-1, 9-11, 6-2, 6-1 victory over his old rival and fellow Atlantan, Jimmy Halverstadt, at the Biltmore Tennis Club Monday afternoon.

Reese was never in better form, as he conquered the Davidson College star under a broiling Labor Day sun before a tennis crowd. His overhead was working to perfection and when he chose to play the net he alignment proved a winning one at a crucial moment in the third set which was really the deciding point in the match.

Ernie Sutter, youthful New Orleans brother of the famous Clifford Sutter, Davis cup star, was the junior singles Monday morning from his pal, George Boynton, with whom he was paired in the senior doubles. The score was 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

DOUBLES HALTED.

The senior doubles final was called during the fifth set on account of darkness with H. L. Gault and Jack Simpson leading Ernie Sutter and George Boynton, 3-2, after the teams had each won two sets.

The doubles brought together the ancient adage of youth versus veteran. The youthful pair, of Sutter and Boynton, were matching the veterans, Gault and Simpson, almost stroke for stroke in probably the hardest-fought doubles match of the tourney as darkness came.

"Honey Boy" Snipes, the Macon fistic artist who faced Bobby Thomas, the Chattanooga wildcat, in the final bout at the Cain Street arena Wednesday night, is given a slight edge in the 10-round encounter.

Reese's victory in the senior singles marked the second time he has captured the state title. He defeated Halverstadt at Savannah last year in the finals and was runner-up in a previous tourney to Wimber Hines at Macon.

The champion made short work of Halverstadt in the first set, which required only 11 minutes. The score was 6-1 as Reese's forehand was working and his bullet-like smashes were hard to handle.

REESE LEADS.

Reese was leading in the second set, 5-1, when Halverstadt made a game comeback. Halverstadt's chop shot began working and added to his serve it soon became apparent that Reese was in for a busy afternoon.

With the match standing at 7-1, the finalists gave an exhibition of tennis that was worthy of a state championship test. The second set was the only time before Halverstadt broke through on the 10th game.

Halverstadt had the serve on the 20th game, and his first offering was sent out of bounds by Reese for a point. Halverstadt then smashed the ball into the left back court for 30-love. Halverstadt made the score 40-love with a red-hot serve that Reese barely stopped.

After a tiring Halverstadt won the deciding point with a well-placed return to the left court as Reese made a game effort, but failed by inches.

The third set was much closer than the second indications. Five of the eight games were decided before Reese was able to vanquish the sturdy Halverstadt.
